The festival is held each year in February and March at the Domyoji Tenmangu Shrine in Osaka, Japan. The shrine is dedicated to the god of scholarship, Sugawara no Michizane, and the plum blossoms are said to be his favorite flower. During the festival, the shrine grounds are transformed into a sea of pink and white blossoms, creating a breathtaking sight.

In addition to the plum blossoms, the festival also features a variety of other attractions, including traditional Japanese music and dance performances, tea ceremonies, and food stalls. Visitors can also Free Download souvenirs and crafts, and there is a children's play area.

The Domyoji Tenmangu Shrine Plum Festival is a popular event for both locals and tourists alike. It is a great way to experience the beauty of spring in Japan and to learn about Japanese culture and traditions.
